Blockchain, Web3 and Virtual Digital Assets

A compendium of questions and answers in Parliament

Foreword

Virtual Digital Assets (VDAs) have been around for more than a decade but efforts to put in place an effective regulatory response is accelerating only now. Some nations have taken early and decisive steps on this front. In India, home to over 450+ innovative Web3 startups, regulatory actions are evolving, slowly but with certainty. Comprehensive and consensus-based VDA regulations have been included as one of the key discussion points in the Finance Track of India's G20 Presidency.

Over the last six years, CoinSwitch has been in the forefront of engaging with Governments—both at the Centre and States—as well as with regulators to demystify Web3 and VDAs with an intent to make India a home for a vibrant digital assets ecosystem.

This first-of-its-kind compendium, Blockchain, Web3 and Virtual Digital Assets, is our effort to curate questions raised by our Hon'ble. Members of Parliament across both Houses on blockchain technology, VDAs, Web3, and the responses offered by different Ministries, including Finance, IT, Commerce and Industry, during the period 2021-2023. This is intended to serve as a ready reckoner for everyone interested in understanding the gamut of issues surrounding this sector and the discussions underway so far in the Parliament. A glossary of key VDA terminology is also available at the end.

We thank the Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha Secretariats for making available these Q&As via their websites, from where we were able to access and source them. We would also like to thank our Hon'ble. MPs, Ministers and officials of the Government of India, who continue to engage with us and raise pertinent issues both inside and outside Parliament.

Happy reading!

MESSAGE

Web3 embodies a paradigm shift in the internet, ushering in decentralization, trust, and ownership for users.

Several countries and organisations across the world have started to experiment with new-age technologies like blockchain to increase the transparency and traceability of goods, data and financial assets, facilitate market access and improve the efficiency of transactions.

Affordable and reliable internet and digital ecosystem, rapid adoption of newage technologies, its vibrant and thriving startup ecosystem, and wide availability of digitally skilled talent potential make India a potential powerhouse for Web3 activity globally.

The Government of Telangana realised the potential of blockchain back in 2017. We have our own blockchain framework to help the government focus on pillars such as developing talent pool, promoting research & innovation, enabling collaboration, and building community supporting infrastructure.

Telangana is the first state in India to launch a Web3 regulatory sandbox for selected blockchain startups to test their solutions in a controlled environment and receive support in the form of mentorship, regulatory compliance, and collaboration. Earlier this year, we also launched the Asset Tokenization Standard Framework which will provide a common set of rules and guidelines for the tokenization of assets. These standards will help to protect investors and consumers, besides facilitating the industry to grow and innovate.

I appreciate CoinSwitch for bringing out a one-of-its-kind publication titled 'Blockchain, Web3 and Virtual Digital Assets: A Compendium of Questions and Answers in Parliament.' In an era defined by rapid technological advancements, a clear understanding of the implications and opportunities presented by blockchain and VDAs is essential.

STATEMENT REFFERED TO IN REPLY TO LOK SABHA STARRED QUESTION NO. 10 RAISED BY SHRI THIRUMAAVALAVAN THOL, HON'BLE MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT TO BE ANSWERED ON 18.07.2022 REGARDING CRYPTOCURRENCY

- (a) Yes, Sir. RBI has been cautioning users, holders and traders of Virtual Currencies (VCs) vide public notices on December 24, 2013, February 01, 2017 and December 05, 2017 that dealing in VCs is associated with potential economic, financial, operational, legal, customer protection and security related risks. RBI had also issued a circular in April 6, 2018 prohibiting its regulated entities to deal in virtual currencies (VCs) or provide services for facilitating any person or entity in dealing with or settling VCs. The said circular has been set aside by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on March 04, 2020. Further RBI, vide its circular dated May 31, 2021 has also advised its regulated entities to continue to carry out customer due diligence processes for transactions in VCs, in line with regulations governing standards for Know Your Customer (KYC), Anti-Money Laundering (AML), Combating of Financing of Terrorism (CFT), obligations under Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), 2002, etc. in addition to ensuring compliance with relevant provisions under Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA) for overseas remittances.
- (b) Yes Sir. RBI has registered its concern over the adverse effect of Cryptocurrency on Indian Economy. RBI mentioned that cryptocurrencies are not a currency because every modern currency needs to be issued by the Central Bank / Government. Further, the value of fiat currencies is anchored by monetary policy and their status as legal tender, however the value of cryptocurrencies rests solely on the speculations and expectations of high returns that are not well anchored, so it will have a de-stabilising effect on the monetary and fiscal stability of a country.
- (c) to (e): In view of the concerns expressed by RBI on the destabilising effect of cryptocurrencies on the monetary and fiscal stability of a country, RBI has recommended for framing of legislation on this sector. RBI is of the view that cryptocurrencies should be prohibited.

Cryptocurrencies are by definition borderless and require international collaboration to prevent regulatory arbitrage. Therefore any legislation for regulation or for banning can be effective only after significant international collaboration on evaluation of the risks and benefits and evolution of common taxonomy and standards.

Under sub-section (6) of section 194S of the Act, the CBDT has been empowered to issue guidelines, with the approval of the Central Government to remove any difficulty arising in giving effect to the provisions of TDS section relating to VDA. CBDT has issued guidelines for removal of difficulties under sub-section (6) of section 194S of the Act in Circular No. 13 of 2022 dated 22nd June 20022 which may apply in cases where transfer of VDA is taking place on or through an Exchange.

RBI has issued a circular dated 6th April 2018 prohibiting its regulated entities to deal in virtual currencies (VCs) or provide services for facilitating any person or entity in dealing with or settling VCs. The said circular has been set aside by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on March 04, 2020.

Further RBI, vide its circular dated May 31, 2021 has also advised its regulated entities to continue to carry out customer due diligence processes for transactions in VCs, in line with regulations governing standards for Know Your Customer

RBI has registered its concern over the adverse effect of Cryptocurrency on Indian Economy. RBI mentioned that cryptocurrencies are not a currency because every modern currency needs to be issued by the Central Bank / Government.

Further, the value of fiat currencies is anchored by monetary policy and their status as legal tender, however the value of cryptocurrencies rests solely on the speculations and expectations of high returns that are not well anchored, so it will have a destabilising effect on the monetary and fiscal stability of a country.

Glossary: A to Z of VDAs

Airdrop Airdrops refer to a unique crypto marketing strategy wherein tokens are distributed to users' wallets for free to spread awareness about the new coin and boost interest. BLOCKCHAIN A blockchain is a distributed ledger that records transaction data, is cryptographically secured, tamper-proof, and distributed over a network of computers. Bitcoin network was the first blockchain developed and went live in 2009. Ethereum, Solana, Cardano, Tron, and BNB are other major blockchains. CRYPTO Crypto is a digital asset that uses a blockchain to record transactions and prove ownership. All public blockchains have a native crypto

Crypto is a digital asset that uses a blockchain to record transactions and prove ownership. All public blockchains have a native crypto token, which is used to settle the transaction fee on the network. The native crypto of the Bitcoin network is called Bitcoin; the native crypto of the Ethereum network is Ether.

DECENTRALIZATION Decentralization refers to the distribution of authority away from a central authority or single entity to a larger number of individuals. In a blockchain, decision-making and governance are distributed across a network of participants referred to as nodes.

ETHEREUM Ethereum is an open-source, decentralized blockchain that enables smart contracts and decentralized applications (DApps). First proposed by Vitalik Buterin, the network went live on July 30, 2015. Ether is the native crypto token of the Ethereum network.

FORK

Fork refers to the splitting of a blockchain into two or more branches with distinct transaction histories. Such an event occurs when participant members differ on the consensus or rule of the protocol.

GAS FEE

Gas fee refers to a transaction fee imposed by a blockchain as a means to allocate computational resources and prioritize transactions within the network. The blockchain's native token is used to settle such fees.

HASH FUNCTION

A hash function is a mathematical algorithm that takes an input of any size and produces a unique fixed-size alphanumeric string. In a blockchain, transaction data are encrypted and stored using a hash function.

IMMUTABILITY

Immutability refers to the tamper-free quality of data stored on the blockchain. This is accomplished since transactions are recorded on the chain only upon consensus among all node participants.

JURISDICTIONAL ARBITRAGE

Jurisdictional arbitrage refers to the practice adopted by global crypto projects to base their operations in jurisdictions that aligns with the company's goals, regulatory requirements, and tax framework. Unequal regulations across countries contribute to this.

KEYLOGGER

Keylogger is a short form for keystroke logging software. It is a type of spying tool used by hackers to record the keystrokes of users, which helps them access sensitive information such as account numbers, passwords, and private keys. They then use the information for personal gain.

LAYER-1 BLOCKCHAIN

A foundational blockchain network that can function independently and provide all features required for the operation of a blockchain is called Layer-1. Bitcoin, Ethereum, Polkadot, Cardano, and Solana are examples of Layer-1 Blockchain. Blockchains that are built atop Layer-1 chains to meet specific goals like greater transaction speed are referred to as Layer-2 blockchains. Optimism, Lightning Network, and Polygon are Layer-2s.

MINING

The process followed by certain blockchains to record transactions and involves a computational race between nodes to solve a puzzle is called mining. "Miners" who solve the puzzle add data blocks to the chain, and they are rewarded with newly "minted" coins.

NODE

A node is a computer (or set of computers) that participates in the consensus mechanism of the blockchain to ensure its integrity. Anyone that meets the technical requirements can set up a node—a key aspect of decentralization. Each node has a copy of the blockchain's data.

ORDINALS

Ordinals are unique identifiers of the smallest unit of bitcoins, satoshis (1 sat=0.00000001 BTC). These unique identifiers were a result of an upgrade in Bitcoin software in 2023, and enabled bitcoin developers to implement NFT-like use-cases on the network.

PRIVATE KEY

Private key is an alphanumeric code (string of alphabets and numbers) that is required to sign and verify any transaction on a blockchain. Private keys are randomly generated and confidential to the user, and help them securely hold their assets.

QUADRATIC FUNDING

Quadratic funding is a unique algorithm-defined fundraising model first proposed by Vitalik Buterin, the co-creator of Ethereum network. It proposes to use algorithm to design and manage crowdfunding—a lot like blockchain. According to the proposal, this algorithm defined method will benefit smaller and underrepresented communities to secure funding for their projects.

RUGPULL

A rugpull refers to a deceptive practice where the token issuers or project developers intentionally and without warning abandon the project or cash out their tokens, leaving investors with near worthless assets.

STAKING

Staking is a process of locking-up a crypto asset in the blockchain to support its operations as defined by the consensus algorithm. Staking enables crypto holders to earn rewards in proportion to their contribution.

Τ

TOKENIZATION

Tokenization refers to the process of converting real-world assets or contracts into digital tokens on a blockchain. Tokenization enables a real-world asset to be transferred, stored, and maintained digitally in a tamper-proof and secure manner.

UNISWAP

Uniswap is a decentralized exchange (DEX) built on the Ethereum blockchain. A decentralized exchange is a marketplace where transactions occur directly between crypto traders, with no human intermediary involved. DEXs only enable crypto-to-crypto transactions.

VALIDATOR

A validator is a participant in a blockchain consensus mechanism responsible for validating and confirming transactions and maintaining the integrity of the blockchain. In a Proof-of-Work (PoW) blockchains like Bitcoin, miners act as the validator nodes (computers). In Proof of Stake (PoS) blockchain like Ethereum, participants who "stake" a certain amount of crypto as collateral earn the right to be a validator..

WRAPPED TOKENS

Wrapped tokens are representative digital tokens of a crypto asset on a different blockchain network. "Wrapping" or collateralizing the original crypto with an equivalent representation on a different blockchain enables cross-chain transfers.

XRP

XRP is the native digital token of the Ripple network. It is designed to facilitate fast and low-cost blockchain-based money transfers for the financial services industry. Ripple was created by Ripple Labs Inc., a technology company founded in 2012.

YIELD FARMING

Yield farming is a practice in decentralized finance (DeFi) where users provide liquidity to decentralized exchanges (DEXs), lending platforms, or other DeFi protocols and earn rewards in the form of additional tokens. Major yield farming protocols are Aave, UniSwap, and Curve Finance.

ZERO-KNOWLEDGE PROOF

A zero-knowledge proof (ZKP) is a cryptographic protocol that allows one party to prove the validity of a statement to another party (the verifier) without revealing any specific information about the statement itself.
